SAMMIES WATCH THE ENEMY WITH REGULATED ZEAL

Boys in French Trenches Give Germans Roland for Their Every Oliver.

PRINCIPAL ANNOYANCE COMES FROM RODENTS

Life in Front Line of Trenches Described by Associated Correspondent.

(By Associated Press)

With the American Army in France, Nov. 21.—The American artillery and infantry at the front are dry once more, the rain having ceased for several days.

The correspondents visiting the immediate front through the courtesy of the French staff found that the Americans had taken advantage of the rainless weather and were devoting all their energies to changing, as they put it, "Germans into casualties." They are as cool and methodical as if they had been doing nothing else than fighting throughout their lives.

Cut Loose Automatics.

The fine group in the first line trenches had just sat down to their salmon sandwiches and coffee when they jumped up and cut loose with their automatic rifles at Germans who were discovered hanging out clothes on a wire in a battered village. They saw the enemy dive for cover like rabbits, and then they went on with their meal as if nothing had happened.

From the first line trenches, which are on a hill, the German first line can be seen clearly between 500 and 1,000 yards away. There was something in the German first line once which will never go back to Germany. It is a woolly dog, which deserted the enemy, crossed "no man's land" and hounded into an American trench one dark night recently.

It kicked the hand of an American "dough boy" and was promptly fed with a piece of white bread and a handful of Columbia river salmon. He was thereupon adopted and now roams all around the trenches and even walks upon the parapet and through the barbed wire entanglements as if there were no war.

Pup Naturalized American.

"This pup," said one of the soldiers, "is a naturalized American, and there is no hyphen about him. He has entirely forgotten all his boche connections. I hope he gets a chance to bite the kaiser."

As the correspondents approached the trench lines over the shell pitted ground the enemy started breaking shrapnel over the first line. This firing lasted but a brief time, stopping suddenly as it began. Immediately afterward came a deluge of shells from the German batteries got into action. Then smoke puffs suddenly began appearing over the German trenches. The infantrymen looked cautiously over "no man's land" while the firing was going on, but as soon as it was over they appeared to forget all about it.

In a nearby dugout the men off duty had not even heard the racket. Their principal worry seemed to be rats. One occupant of the dugout explained that there was sleeping room in it for 38 men and that 12 cats were kept in it. Cats were everywhere, some sleeping on folded blankets and some prowling in dark corners or stalking their prey.

French Feet and Colds.

The men all appeared to be in the best of health, although during the recent wet and cold weather several men in this unit had contracted "trench feet" and colds.

While the sun was going down behind the hills and the darkness was coming on swiftly scarcely a shot was fired. Just as the sun passed below the horizon, however, the German batteries opened up on one of the American battery positions with a hot fire, the high explosives bursting with the regularity of the clock tick—about one every second. The bombardment lasted a couple of minutes and then ended abruptly.

Immediately the American batteries

WHAT BISMARCK WANTS TO KNOW

The Answer is Found in the Statements of a Bismarck Resident

From week to week, from year to year, there have been appearing in these columns statements made by neighbors, which we have all read with great interest, and many of us with great profit. But what we want to know is do they stand the greatest test of all—the test of time? Here is conclusive evidence of this point from a Bismarck man:

J. R. Williams, 212 S. Sixth St., says: "I was bothered for six weeks or more with a constant, dull, throbbing ache in the small of my back. If I over-exerted, sharp twinges caught me and I could hardly move. I was tired and languid and too frequent passages of the kidney sometimes caused much annoyance. I always find Doan's Kidney Pills beneficial."

Over two years later, Mr. Williams said: "During the fall and winter, I need a medicine for my kidneys, as the shoveling of coal in the furnace is wearing on my kidneys and affects my back. I always find Doan's Kidney Pills beneficial."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Williams had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.

TWO OF THOSE FOR WHOM THE WORLD MUST BE MADE SAFE

These two young girls escaped the clutches of the Germans and have now arrived safely in America.

They are Janet (above) and Lydia Blumenthal, daughters of the former mayor of the Alsatian town of Comar. Their father, Daniel Blumenthal, was formerly deputy from Alsace in the German reichstag and while there made a notable fight against Prussianism. Later he became mayor of his home town of Comar in 1914. During July there were rumors of trouble and on the 31st an order came from the Prussian government or depositing Mayor Blumenthal and appointing a German in his place.

To prevent the arrest and imprisonment of their father the two girls took their car and went to a quiet place in the woods and waited while their father, apparently walking aimlessly reached their hiding place. Then they motored him to a hamlet several miles on the road to Switzerland.

Returning to Comar for a needed supply of gasoline they also rescued a young male relative who was dressed in some of their garments. Starting again, they were repeatedly halted by German guards, but succeeded in passing each time with the statement that they were the wives of German officers. The sudden declaration of war and the consequent confusion enabled them to get across the bound ary into Switzerland.

Blumenthal and his daughters have now come to America to tell the American people why Alsace Lorraine can not remain German and must go back to France.

retaliated, flashes of orange colored flame stabbing the night. The detonations—some heavy and some light—continued for some time with as much speed as the Germans had shown. Then the "strafing" and the answer being over, the artillery settled down for the night of usual quiet.

FARGO STENOGRAPHER DASHED TO DEATH AT BOTTOM OF ELEVATOR

Mrs. Margaret Tullis, Formerly of Carrington, Dies at Stone Piano Co.

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 21.—Mrs. Margaret Tullis, was killed about 11 o'clock Monday morning when she fell down the elevator shaft in the Stone Piano company building, First avenue north.

Mrs. Tullis, stenographer employed by the company, was aboard the elevator, operating the carrier herself. As she reached the second floor, she raised the gates, without stopping the elevator, and stepped onto the landing.

The elevator continued up, and as it passed her, she toppled back into the basement, a drop of 35 feet. The girl's scream brought other employees to her side in a moment. Death, however had been instantaneous, according to the physician who was summoned immediately.

Mrs. Tullis was formerly Miss Margaret Foss, employed by the Stone Piano company several years. Her mother resides at Casselton.

Mrs. Tullis was 21 years of age, had resided in Fargo four years, coming from Casselton. Her parents have been dead several years. A brother, Richard Foss, a Casselton, and a sister, Helen Foss, Casselton, survive.

FUEL ADMINISTRATION MAY WITHDRAW PRIORITY

Believed Practically all Fuel that Can Reach Head of Lakes Has Already Come

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—The fuel administration is considering immediate withdrawal of the priority order under which all middle western coal shipments have been going to lake ports for the northwestern territory. When this is done the coal will be diverted to the east, to relieve shortages there.

Dr. Garfield called into conference on the subject today F. C. Baird of Cleveland, the fuel administration's representative in charge of the Great Lakes situation, and W. H. Gloverman of Minneapolis, secretary of the Northwestern Coal Operators' association.

The lake shipping season is nearly over, and it is believed that most of the coal that can be supplied before it closes already has started from the mines.

NORTH DAKOTA MEN GET COMMISSIONS AT CAMP MILLS, N. Y.

Camp Mills, N. Y., Nov. 21.—Twenty-eight members of the First North Dakota regiment which arrived here yesterday from Camp Greene, Charlotte, N. C., were commissioned as officers and the phlegmatic routine of Camp Greene was transformed into a scene of activity as the troops settled down in camp and received their outfits.

The list of the commissioned men will not be available until tomorrow. It was pointed out today that drafted men from North Dakota would not be sent to Camp Mills, as the North Dakota regiment is now filled with drafted men from California. DODGE BROTHERS COMMERCIAL CAR READY dealers are preparing for a demand as heavy as that which has greeted the other Dodge Brothers products since they came on the market three years ago.

The building of the commercial car was influenced by the frequent and consistent demand for Dodge Brothers chassis for commercial purposes. The mechanical features of Dodge Brothers standard touring car were so well adapted to use for light commercial work that hundreds of business concerns bought the chassis alone and had special commercial bodies built to suit their requirements. Naturally, this practice led to a demand for a light commercial car as a part of the Dodge Brothers regular line of cars.

The result is the practical substantial and good appearing vehicle which is now being marketed. "Precisely the kind of a car you would expect Dodge Brothers to build," was the remark with which many dealers received it. The specifications are similar to those of the standard touring car, except for several details in which consideration is given the necessity for handling a much greater load. Among the details referred to are 3 1/4 tires, heavier springs, steering post set at higher angle and gasoline tank under the driver's seat. In view of the fact that the standard car chassis has served with much satisfaction in commercial work, it is apparent, with these extra assurances of stability, that the commercial car is destined to occupy a position of importance in the light delivery field.

The illustrated statement concerning the Commercial Car recently issued to dealers by Dodge Brothers, describes the body as being of pressed steel, with a black enamel finish similar to the finish of the standard touring car. For enclosure of the car there is a set of substantial oiler duck curtains, for both sides and rear of the driver's seat, as well as for the sides and rear of the body. The driver's seat and back are upholstered in genuine leather. The wire screens of the body are removable.

The Commercial Car is practically a duplicate of the car which Dodge Brothers have been delivering to the government in large quantities for several months.

FAKE TEMPEST
SAYS RUSSELL

War Correspondent Recently Returned from Petrograd Says Bolsheviks Will Fail.

WOULD SEND MEN AS WELL AS MONEY AND MUNITIONS

Believes People Need Expression of Confidence to Lead Them On to Victory.

"This is no time to think or advocate change," said Charles Edward Russell in an interview here Monday. "Our one consideration should be the winning of this war. Nothing else should be given a thought at this time. It is on this point that I am forced to disagree with my friends of the Non-partisan league, which I have taken a great deal of interest in, and in whose organization I had some small part."

"I am thoroughly in sympathy with any movement which will make farming more attractive, safer and more lucrative. But, giving the league leaders credit for being honest and sincere, they must see that these betterments which they seek can only come through genuine democracy, and we cannot have a real democracy unless we win this war. Everything that is done to annoy and handicap our government now puts that democracy just so much further beyond our grasp."

Socialism Not Issue.

"I am not here to discuss socialism. Socialism means change and it must be forgotten for the moment. The biggest thing in the world to me is this war and our necessity for winning it. The situation is terribly serious. We are fighting at a great disadvantage. The war will be fought out in Europe. We will never face the necessity of defending our own homes from the invader. But we must fight 4,000 miles away from home, confronted by vast difficulties in the transportation of our troops. That is the thing that defeated Russia. That is the one thing, I am convinced after three visits to the western front, that may defeat us, should things go badly. There is the possibility that this war may drag along to a point where the allies are exhausted, and where the United States, bearing the brunt of the burden, cannot amass men in Europe rapidly enough to conquer Germany, even though we may have an unlimited supply of men and munitions here in America."

The Russian Situation.

"America has an utterly wrong conception of the Russian problem," said Mr. Russell. "The Bolsheviks are taken too seriously. This party has control in Petrograd, a bare majority in Moscow and some strength in Odessa, and there it ends. Controlling Petrograd, it was simple for the Bolsheviks, with the army on their side, to seize the government, depose the premier, seat their own man, and send out messages claiming Russia as their own. The report that Premier Lenin has sued for a separate peace, even if the report is true—and most of the news which we get from Russia is not true—is farcical. Should Lenin or any other leader seek to negotiate a separate peace the peasants of Russia, who form 80 per cent of the population, would revolt. Lenin would have to account to the Russian people. The peasantry is opposed to the Bolsheviks. The Russian proletariat will never abandon the proletariat of other countries. They stand for a universal peace, and for world-wide democracy. It is astonishing to find the intelligent grasp of world issues which the peasants in Russia have been able to gain."

The Real Russian Problem.

"The Bolshevik problem may be dismissed as purely temporary and inconsequential. The Russian army still holds the Galician and Rumanian fronts, it still holds 143 German army divisions. A more serious problem is the lack of sympathy and understanding between Russia and America. I have been convinced ever since I returned from Russia that we should send troops to Russia. The suggestion has been ridiculed by our newspapers. They have asked how we would get men there to begin with and how we would feed them in the second place. Neither of these propositions presents any real difficulty. We have enough bottoms to transport the men; Russia has an abundance of food. It is with Russia principally a question of efficient transportation, which the Stevens commission and the practical operating men who we have just sent over will solve."

"The Russian army never would desert American soldiers fighting in Russia. We must do something to hold that Russian army on the frontier. The withdrawal of the Russian forces would release at least 100 of the 143 German divisions now on the Russian front. It would free from Russian prisons 1,500,000 German prisoners, every one a veteran fighting man. It would dump this entire mass of skilled soldiers on the western front, and would mean a terrific added burden for America there."

Good Offices Must Continue.

"We must continue to lend Russia money and send her supplies. The

Bismarck HOSKINS North Dakota

American press must cease its critical, captious fault-finding attitude toward Russia and must express sympathy and a friendly feeling. The German press agents see to it that every criticism we make gets back to Russia. And we should send troops to Russia, a very considerable body to the Rumanian front and some to the Galician line. The moral effect on Russia would be tremendous. I say again, no Russian would ever think of abandoning American troops fighting in Russia.

the half-witted, the half-hearted, the half-loyal, the part-patriotic.

"We must show no mercy for treason; no patience with disloyalty, either to us or to our allies."

"The greatest aid Germany has had in this war has been the utterances of our pacifists. They may be good at heart, and honest. But they don't know, and to not know in this crisis is fatal. Throw them out."

"If they cannot understand this crisis they are too densely dull, or too much copperhead and coward to serve us."

BRITISH TANKS LEADS FIVE MILE GAIN

mit Germany to enter the society of nations because Germany's signature cannot be trusted.

With the Italians holding the Austro-Germans from Lake Garda to the Adriatic, the official announcement from Berlin says everything is quiet on the Italian front.

The Russian maximalist government has declared Russia out of the war according to information from German and Scandinavian sources. A dispatch to Copenhagen from Berlin says that the belief is held in the German capital that the prospects for a peace of conciliation are far better than previously. Neutral capitals have no official reports, nor is there word from Petrograd that the Bolsheviks have decided to suspend military activities.

The workmen and soldiers' congress is during a split. The district of the Ukraine in southwestern Russia has declared its independence and 200,000 Ukrainian troops have been withdrawn from the fighting front, which may cause a serious crippling of the effectiveness of the Russian army.

OPPOSITE GERMAN BASE

From St. Quentin to the Scarpe is thirty-two miles. The British drive across a part of the field of last year's offensive on the Somme and a section of the Arras battlefield, south of Arras. The British center in this thrust is nearly opposite Cambrai, the important German base and railway center, from which the British line on the Bapaume-Cambrai road was about 9 miles distant as it had stood for several months. The main force of the push launched is apparently aimed at Cambrai along this road.

Established Last Spring

What is known as the Hindenburg line was established last spring when the famous "strategic retreat" on the Somme front was carried out. It was supposed to be an impregnable barrier which had been in careful preparation. The British and French, however, showed in the Arras battle last spring, and in the French drive on the Aisne front, that the line was by no means a bar to their progress and serious inroads were made in it on various attacks on both fronts. No definite break, however, had ever been effected.

The attack came almost without warning, the only symptoms being a series of somewhat elaborate trench raids.

Hardly Hint Given

The elaborate raids in this sector reported last night by the British war office, which the German staff announced it had taken steps to meet, gave hardly a hint that a push in any such force or over such a wide extent of front was in progress. There has been little speculation over the possibility of a British attack in force on the western front this fall in any area other than that of Flanders, where the main British effort for several months past has been expended. Even here, the lateness of the season and difficult nature of the ground at this time of the year, particularly, seemed to give little basis for expectation of anything more than little strokes here and there.

Italy Drew Teutonic's Attention

It has been apparent, however, that German attention was largely centered on the Italian front, where the military move in 1916, intended to crush Italy, is now in full swing. Admittedly numbers of German troops had been sent to the Italian front, but the assumption has been these had been drawn from the Russian front where the collapse of the Russian military machine had made it unnecessary for the Germans to maintain much more than trench garrisons. It is considered possible, however, that the British secret service had knowledge of a weakening of the German front in the west by the withdrawal of highly trained experienced troops to give backbone to the push in Northern Italy, and opportunity thus being afforded to catch the Germans unaware and hit them a crushing blow while their strategic reserves in the France-Belgian war area was depleted.

The element of surprise the reports reveal was a large factor in the initial British success as contrary to the almost invariable rule in this war there was no advance preparation by the British artillery, the troops going "over the top" and falling upon an enemy apparently without any expectation that he was about to be attacked.

MAD MONK OF RUSSIA BIG SCREEN HIT

The true story of Russia—the events leading up to the revolution and the death of Rasputin, the black force behind the Czar—are now for the first time told in "Rasputin. The Black Monk," a remarkable feature issued by World-Pictures Brady-Made. The facts connected with the fall of the Romanoffs are now told for the first time and are told in a way that will enthral every movie fan, every student of history and every person who is interested in keeping up with the biggest events of the times. This most remarkable attraction will be shown at the Auditorium theatre on Thursday and Friday with a magnificent cast headed by Montague Love, June Elvidge, Arthur Ashley, Julia Dean, Irving Cummings, and Hubert Wilke. Money has been spent on this picture with a lavish hand. The construction of a single street used in a few of the scenes cost $10,000 and the other settings are proportionately expensive. But the result justifies the expenditures. "Rasputin, the Black Monk" is a gripping masterpiece. It tells the inside history of the biggest event of the world's biggest war and reveals a charming romance connected with the great revolution. It moves swiftly. It is an unforgettable masterpiece.

Man With Broken Back—Henry Simpfordorfer, a well known Douglas farmer, who last spring suffered a broken back when he fell from a rafter of the new barn he was building, has arrived in the city and is spending a short time at the Bismarck hospital in consultation with the staff physicians.

Mr. Simpfordorfer was able to leave the Bismarck hospital last summer after receiving treatment for two months and all last summer and fall superintended the work on his large farm near Dodge. He directed the work from a wheeled chair. Another remarkable feature of his recovery is that he is able to move one of his limbs.

The hospital considers it a most satisfactory recovery. Mr. Simpfordorfer is the second patient to leave the institution after receiving treatment for a broken back.

HOW LONG IS A LAUGH?

THE TABLEAU AT WHICH AUDIENCES MAKE A "RECORD."

If you stopped the first ten men you met on a given corner and asked each of them to tell you just how long he took to laugh at a tableau in the theatre, the chances are good that the answers would range from four seconds to half an hour.

The last thing a man knows, when he is laughing at a play, is how much time he gives to each laugh. It is, therefore, the easiest thing in the world for him to be deceived about.

But any good stage manager of a good farce can tell you to a split second, and some of the statistics of the stage manager of "Fair and Warmer," Avery Hopwood's tumultuous laugh-maker, are as amazing as they are exact.

The average hearty laugh in the theatre lasts nine seconds. That is a goodly roar, too—no puny chuckle. Sometimes even quite successful farces go from curtain to curtain with no laugh over nine seconds. It sounds piffling, but it indicates a very fair degree of enjoyment.

Many successful comedies have merely chuckle all through—those fugitive humors that run over an audience like a light wind and are beloved of the actors because they prove that the audience is warm and pleasantly responsive. These chuckles last five or six seconds. If you stop and listen to one, the next time you see a comedy, you'll realize—probably for the first time in your life—what a good laugh can do for you in a tiny space of actual time.

But the first-second chuckle and the ten-second laugh are by no means the most extraordinary phenomena that the stage manager has for you. He can tell you figures on what the theatre people know, a little incongruously but not less as "the stomach laugh," it runs anywhere from 18 seconds to 20 seconds for the chuck-40 seconds for the "big laugh" in "Fair and Warmer" runs to 43 seconds, eight in and eight out, and it is 15 seconds longer than any other laugh the record books have created.

How do they time the laughs? It is just the time between the end of the line you laugh at, and the moment when the player begins the next line, and you stop laughing to listen.

It is timed by the stage manager because he has to arrange a little pantomime for the players, in which they wait gracefully while you are laughing. The moment they speak you stop laughing. You are allowed to laugh as long as you will, then the play begins again.

In the prompter's manuscript there are directions for how long the players must wait. That is how the records of long laughs are kept. In the prompter's copy of "Fair and Warmer," for example, there is a direction for 23 seconds' wait. In "It Pays to Advertise" there were three big laughs in straight succession, which, though the audience would have said it had surely laughed half an hour without stopping, actually totaled up to 93 seconds. The first minute's time for three laughs.

The "Fair and Warmer" on which their 43-second record appears is the comedy by Hopwood "She said she did it." Perhaps you can find it, but it means from the picture.

SENIORS WANT FANCIER GOWNS FOR GRADUATION

At a meeting of the girls of the senior class of the high school Tuesday afternoon they voted to adopt a resolution asking that a more flimsy material be used in fashioning the graduation gown than was worn by the class of 1917, as stipulated by the board of education. Although the vote was not unanimous, a large majority of the girls voted in favor of its passage.

The board of education last year made a ruling that the girl graduates wear the regulation Peter Thompson gowns with black ties and the ruling was complied with. The girls of the class of 1918 will present their petition to the board for its consideration.

At a meeting of the junior class Monday afternoon Lloyd Couch was elected president; Donald McCoy, vice president; Dorothy Skeels, secretary and Josephine Welch, treasurer.

THANKSGIVING IS MODERN VERSION OF AN ANCIENT FESTIVAL

By BIDDY BEE.

Because the president issues a proclamation appointing a day of Thanksgiving each fall, we are apt to regard this holiday as peculiarly an American institution.

Thanksgiving Day is, however, only our modern version of a very ancient festival, one observed in almost every corner of the globe. And we feast on much the same foods our ancestors considered choice—so far as the food profiteers will let us.

The Thanksgiving proclamation appears in several places in the Bible. In Leviticus there is the command, "When ye shall have gathered the fruit of the land, ye shall keep a feast unto the Lord."

The Greeks honored Ceres, the goddess of agriculture. Her symbol were poppies, ears of corn, a basket of fruit and a little pig. Except for the poppies, the market basket of the ancient Greek goddess might be delivered to many modern kitchens just before Thanksgiving.

The turkey is America's distinctive contribution to the harvest home festival. Plymouth housekeepers must have roasted a score of the wild birds to satisfy the hungry hunters at that

Mother Ship to Guard Boys Going to France

Mothers of boys who are going "over there" to fight for the honor and independence of this country may be needlessly worrying about the ocean voyage their boys must make to get "somewhere in France."

Those submarine dangers may not be as great in the future as they have been in the past.

For our soldiers may go over in transports conveyed by a "mother ship."

A "mother ship" is the latest device of American inventive genius to beat the German submarine.

It is the product of John L. Bogen, New York consulting engineer, and is taken seriously by all scientific journals and marine experts.

The "mother ship" is designed to be the sea protector of transport vessels, although she herself would carry both freight and human cargoes.

The mother ship would convey fleets of transports.

Four 5-inch calibre guns would be mounted on her deck, for use in case a U-boat is sighted. But the mother boat doesn't have to wait until the submarine comes near, for the mother ship's deck is a landing platform for bombing aeroplanes, which will accompany the fleet, flying out from the mother ship by day and night to watch for the undersea enemy.

The inventor claims that his boat is practically unsinkable. A system of ballast makes it so, he asserts.

The soldiers, going across to fight for their country, in a transport conveyed by a mother ship would have their own vessel protected by the gunners and aerial scouts and bombers on board the mother ship, and if their boat should be torpedoed there would be the mother ship near by to pick them up.

The Scientific American points out that the Bogen mother ship incorporates the three measures of defense and attack necessary to beat the U-boats. First there are the guns on the mother ship; secondly, the making such vessels unsinkable in so far as possible; and thirdly, the use of airplane scouts and bombers at sea.

TRIBUNE MAN TAKES RIDE IN BRITISH TANK

ing its passengers about like peas in a pod . . . panting, pawing and scrambling to the tune of furious roaring, and finally clambered after a slip or two right up the side of the mound and flopped down on top like a seal scrambling onto a rock.

After a moment's rest it dove off the other side, giving Mother Earth and its passengers a terrific jar and smashing everything within reach.

(Long passage here deleted by the censor.)

That's the kind of animal the tank crews ride into battle.

It is no secret that they do not invariably come back. There are tank casualties as well as airplane casualties. I have clambered as one of a party of correspondents through dead tanks, battered and ditched amid the debris of a battlefield.

"What a hellish way to meet your death, in that iron shell!" was the universal comment.

It must be a ghastly fate, and yet there are more candidates for service in the tanks than can be accommodated.

When the full story of the cool, dauntless heroism of the tank men can be told, it will rival the greatest feats accomplished by any branch of the service.

I sit for the present we still have to treat their exploits mostly as a joke!

ARABS ENRAGED AT TURKS

Deliberate Shooting of Lieutenant While Engaged in Prayer Stir Revolt.

Cairo.—A new reason for the revolt of the Asiatic tribes in Turkey against Turkish rule has become common property of the Ottoman army and threatens to cause other defections, according to reports reaching here.

According to these stories Abdul Kader, a Turkish officer commanding an Arabian contingent, deliberately shot and killed a lieutenant who did not salute because the Turk passed while his subordinate was at prayer. The Arabs are protesting bitterly that this conduct scarcely conforms to their ideas of a holy war.

DAKOTANS AT CAMP DODGE WILL GO TO CAMP CODY, AT DEMING, IS LATEST DEPARTMENT ORDER

Camp Dodge, Ia., Nov. 21.—Recent developments in connection with the assignment of troops to this cantonment indicates there will be a marked reduction from the maximum camp population originally fixed by the war department.

When assignment of national army men to this camp was first announced, indications were that the maximum number to be concentrated here would approximate 50,000. Reassignment of various units has cut this down to about 25,000, latest figures show.

Orders for the transfer to various units of nearly 11,000 men have been received here since the opening of the camp in September. Virtually all these men have been or will be taken from the increments now in training, and their places will be taken here by the final increments expected to report within two weeks.

First came the assignments to Camp Cody at Deming, N. M., to bring the various national guard units there to war strength. That took 4,000 men. Shortly after, another 1,000 men were moved to Houston, Tex., and now selections are being made of the men to comprise the assignment of 8,000 to Camp Pike, near Little Rock, Ark., and of another 900 for transfer to the aviation branch of the signal corps.

Dakotans to Deming

The men sent to Camp Cody were from North Dakota, Minnesota and Iowa, while Illinois furnished the Houston lot. The soldiers selected for Camp Pike are from various units, as are also the signal corps men.

It had been announced that 1,600 men would be transferred to the aviation signal work, but supplementary orders cut this down to 317. It was said unofficially that additional selections for this branch might be made after the last two increments in the first army report here.

The men for transfer to Camp Pike will be picked as follows: From the 24th infantry, 1,200; from the 35th, 1,000; from the 31st, 1,500; from the 32nd, 1,600; from the 33rd field artillery, 500; from the 33rd artillery, 550; from the 31st engineers, 500; from the 33rd, 33rd and 33rd machine gun battalions, 200 each, and from several separate organizations sufficient men to bring the total to 8,000.

To Slow Up Work

Officers point out that the transfer of this large number of men, all versed in the rudimentary principles of warfare, at least, will naturally slow up the work of training a division here, as the places of the trained men will have to be filled with raw recruits in the next increments.

It is the viewpoint of a few, too, that the war department may plan on using this cantonment to proper strength with men who have acquired a working knowledge of the "game." In this event it is said, it would be virtually impossible to organize and maintain a well drilled and balanced division here, as various units frequently would be disrupted by the transfer of large numbers of men.

More Negroes

When the call for the last two increments assigned to this cantonment is sent out by the war department, it is expected the remainder of negroes from Alabama, intended for this camp and numbering about 3,000, also will be called.

KEPT BOY HOME TO PLOW, FINED $24 AS SCHOOL LAW BREAKER

Well Known St. Anthony Farmer Pleads Guilty to Violation Before Campbell.

Anton Leingang of St. Anthony was arraigned before Judge James Campbell in justice court yesterday afternoon for failing to send his children to school as prescribed by law. Leingang is said to have been warned not to keep his children out of school. He found it necessary to keep one of the boys at home because he needed him to assist with the plowing.

Judge Campbell impressed Mr. Leingang with the necessity of sending the children to school and imposed a fine of $24. Leingang promised to send the youngest to school in the future. The complaint was made against Leingang by County Superintendent of Schools, Jensen.

THE FOUR FLUSHER

By Bertin Braloy.

He knows he doesn't count for much. And yet he seeks to count for more. He can't be great, but he can clutch at greatness' garments; he can soar.

In fancy to a higher spot. Than otherwise he might attain. He tries to seem what he is not. Nor is his bluffing all in vain.

He may be false, a hollow fake. A thing for men to jeer and jibe: Yet this we know, he tried to break From out the common, plodding tribe.

Within him stirs some cheap romance. Ambition in a tawdry dress— And so he bluffs and takes a chance To gain a small impressiveness.

Of course, when called, his bluff takes flight. Yet I'm not sure but what he's right. Better four flush to some extent Than be a nobody—content!

ALMOST ANY HOUND CAN BE TRAINED TO HUNT RABBITS BUT BEAGLE IS THE BEST

By MORRIS ACKERMAN.

(Famous Hunter and Trapper.)

It probably is the generally accepted belief that most any old kind of a "scout" is a rabbit hound.

Such is far from the case. A rabbit hound needs training as well as a bird dog.

In fact there is many a good dog that would make an excellent little bunny-chaser, but from lack of a little help has never been broken to the sport.

Most any "hound dog" can be educated to hunt rabbits and the training is simple. Go to the nearest "bird store" and purchase, at a small sum, a pet rabbit—get the hound acquainted with the rabbit, then let it run a few yards, putting the dog on its trail, and the education begins.

As you increase the distance of the trail you increase the hound's worth. Be sure the bunny is well protected, in a box or crate, so the hound cannot harm it.

After you are satisfied with results take your puppy to the fields and start him on the wilder bunnies—he will soon pick up the game and get as much fun out of it as you do.

All it takes to make a rabbit dog is patience, as most any hound will soon get wise to the sport. Unlike the pointer and setter in bird hunting, there is not the argument in what is the "best" rabbit hound—as most hunters are agreed the honors go to the beagle.

The beagle is small, gets under the brush easily, is light of foot through the briars, but while more slow of foot than the fox-hound he stands the gaff better and delivers the goods or a longer period of time.

In hunting rabbits with a hound it is well to stand on the high spots, thus affording a better view of the dog and the game, at the same time having an advantage in case of a miss, when the bunny is finally turned and brought back again.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

A. M. asks: Do you consider guns of the 30-30 type O. K. for big game hunting?

Guns of this type are all right for deer, but for moose and bear heavier guns are more satisfactory.

G. C. What size shot are best for rabbits?

No. 7 1-2 should be very satisfactory.

Ran Johnson is hunting in the south. Ran ought to do pretty well. All he would have to do would be to order the deers to stop running so he could get a shot at them.

NORTH DAKOTA WOMEN GOES WITHOUT FOOD FOR THREE MONTHS AND WALKS MILE EVERY DAY

Carrington, N. D., Nov. 20.—Mrs. T. W. Baker, prominent Carrington woman, is in line for honors as the champion food conservator of the United States. Mrs. Baker has established what appears to be a world's record in the fasting line, on November 8, 1918, breaking a fast that started August 14, 1917, for the purpose of benefiting her health. During the 82 days Mrs. Baker partook of no food or drinks, with the exception of pure water.

During all her period of fasting Mrs. Baker states that she felt fine, going about her usual household duties. Even in the last days of her fast, she would walk daily from her home to the Soo depot, a distance of fully a mile, and home again, with absolutely no discomfort.

During her fast she lost 75 pounds, but at the completion was not emaciated. Her complexion is of the best and her general appearance is that of a woman in the very best of health.

MIKE O'DOWD, "THE FIGHTING HARP," DRAGS MIDDLEWEIGHT CROWN FROM BROW OF AL M'COY

By PAUL PURMAN.

The middleweight crown which for several years has rested uneasily on the brow of Al McCoy, the Brooklyn southpaw, has been clawed from Al's dome and now adorns the curly head of Mike O'Dowd, "The Fighting Harp" of St. Paul.

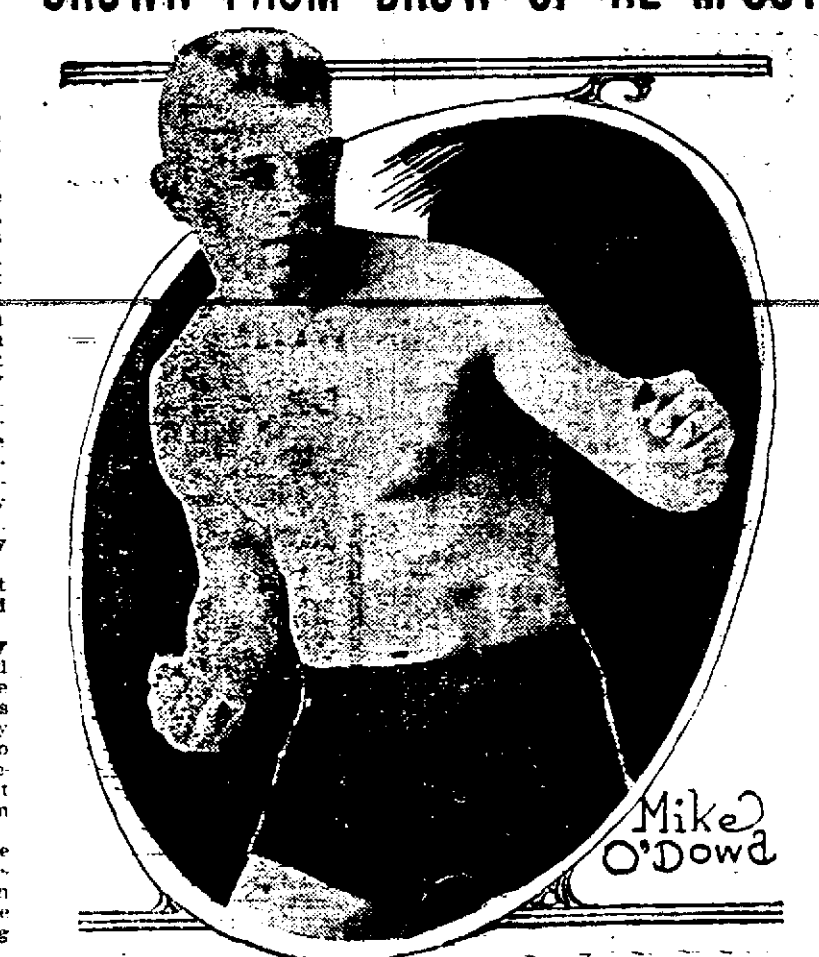

It is going too far to say that Mike O'Dowd is the greatest middleweight fighter of today, but by a curious freak of fortune he has the title and unless all signs fail will hang on to it with a death grip.

The Middleweight title has been snuffed unmercifully since the death of Stanley Ketchell. Lilly Papke first claimed it and defended it successfully against Willie Lewis in Paris in 1910. The next year Cyclone Johnny Thompson defeated Papke and claimed the championship, but in 1912 both outgrew the title which remained in abeyance until Frank Kuas claimed it by virtue of a victory over Papke in 1913. His claims were pretty generally recognized.

In 1912 George Chip knocked out Kuas in two successive fights and claimed the title.

Early in 1914 Chip unfortunately ran into a punch in the first round of his bout with Al McCoy and the latter resumed the title. McCoy was never a real champion and usually defied anyone who was likely to knock him out. He was beaten repeatedly in no-decision bouts, but O'Dowd was the first to make him take the count.

O'Dowd is a native of St. Paul. He recently graduated from the welterweight class and has not been taken very seriously as a middleweight. He is 22 years old and has been fighting since 1912.

AMERICAN WAR COUNCIL HEARS LLOYD GEORGE

Lord Chief Justice of England Presides at First British-American Conference.

PREMIER PLACES HOPE IN YANKEE SHIPPING

Easing of Position of Allies Depends on Launching 6 Million Tons of Bottoms.

London, Nov. 21.—None of the allied war councils which have occurred in the last three years have occasioned the same interest as today's historic meeting of the American war mission and the British war cabinet for tightening the links that chain the Anglo-American war efforts. The scene is the dingy old residence in Downing street, which has served the prime ministers of many generations as both home and office, and the room is the council chamber where the destinies of the empire have been shaped since the days of the American revolution.

Lord Reading, the lord chief justice, will preside with Andrew Bonar Law, British chancellor of the exchequer, and Oscar T. Crosby, assistant secretary of the American treasury, at the table beside him. The military and naval heads of both governments and officials representing other departments of war work will be grouped together.

Stock of Resources.
The general work of the meeting constitutes the taking of stock of the resources and needs of both countries and, to some extent, of the continental allies.

The conference met at noon and lasted an hour and a half.

The conference reported that satisfactory progress had been made.

Premier Lloyd George opened the conference with a speech which the conferees described as having been an important statement. One conferee said the spirit of greatest earnestness and unity permeated the meeting and that the most important practical results were achieved.

Those Present.
The American representatives were General Tasker H. Bliss, chief of staff; Admiral Wm. S. Benson, chief of naval operations; Thomas Nelson Perkins, member of the priority board; Dr. Alonzo Taylor, representing the food controller; Bainbridge Colby of the United States shipping board; Oscar T. Crosby, assistant secretary of the treasury; and Vance McCormick, chairman of the war trade board.

The British representatives were Premier Lloyd George, Foreign minister Balfour, Viscount Milner, Geo. Nicoll Barnes and Earl Curzon of Kedleston, constituting the war cabinet; Lord Reading, and Lord Northcliffe, the Earl of Derby, General Sir Wm. R. Robertson and Lieut. General Sir C. Smuts, representing the army; Sir Eric Geddes and Admiral Sir John R. Jellicoe, representing the navy, and Major John L. Baird, Baron Rhonda, Lord Robert Cecil, Walter Hume Long and Dr. Christopher Addison, representing, respectively, aviation, food, and the coal, petroleum and munitions. In the course of his speech Mr. Lloyd George said:

Submarines and Shipping.
Assuming that the submarine situation does not get worse, the easing of the position of the allies depends entirely upon the dates on which the American program of launching six million tons of shipping promised for 1918 comes into practical effect.

The premier said he wished to recognize the eager earnestness with which the people of the United States are throwing themselves into the great task. He expressed absolute confidence that the great democracies now marching shoulder to shoulder would utterly overthrow the menace which threatened the liberty of the world.

The premier thanked the mission for "the invaluable services which the United States navy has already rendered, not only in protecting commerce, but in dealing with the submarine, for vital assistance in financing the war and for effective help in many other ways."

With reference to the question of supplies, Mr. Lloyd George assured the mission that the most drastic food restrictions were about to be imposed upon the people of the British Isles.

The premier told the mission that the collapse of Russia and the reverses to Italy "made it even more imperative than before that the United States send as many troops as possible across the Atlantic as early as possible."

CREEK PREMIER ISSUES ADDRESS

Hellenic Leader Now in London to Attend Conference of Allied Nations.

DISTRICT OFFICIALS FEAR A TEUTON PLOT

Washington, Nov. 21.—Department of justice officials today began investigating reports that concerted efforts had been made to influence naturalized Greeks for the District of Columbia against joining the new national guard being organized in Washington. Adjutant General J. A. Depary, commanding the district militia reported that plans for forming a company of Greeks had been seriously hampered by an insidious propaganda.

Venizelos to Greek-Americans.
Washington, Nov. 21.—Elliphrates Venizelos, the Greek premier, now in London for the Inter-Allied conference, issued a statement today to the Greeks of America. It was received here by cable as follows:

"I am happy at being able to address greetings from the capital of the British empire to the Greeks over the seas, who in this most tragic period of our national history have shown moral strength and faith unshakable in the policy which draws its principles from the very traditions of the Hellenic race. The principles were always in harmony with the ideals of freedom of the great American democracy."

"It is impossible for Greeks living amidst the most liberal democratic people of the world not to loathe the political dogma of Prussian militarism. The Greeks espouse the ideas of freedom so brilliantly expressed by America's great citizen, Wilson."

Faithful to Compact.
"United Greece is faithful to the compact entered into with the allies, and this unity is not impaired by mischievous, isolated rumors and the doings of a few organs which in some parts of the world continue to serve the fallen regime. We will now re-

Wholesale Rejection of Talesmen in the Saulles Trial Opens Proceeding

Minneapolis, N. Y., Nov. 21.—Only eight jurors having been found acceptable among the 68 talesmen called during two days' tedious questioning, it seemed probable today that the trial of Mrs. Bianca De Saulles charged with shooting to death her divorced husband, might further be delayed by the necessity of summoning another panel.

Mrs. De Saulles' chief attorney would not venture a prediction as to when his client would be placed on the stand to tell her story of the night of Aug. 1, when she shot her former husband John L. De Saulles, widely known as a Yale football player and clubman, at his Long Island home.

Neither would he give details as to the testimony he will introduce in support of the claim of the defense that Mrs. De Saulles was mentally deranged when she did the shooting.

Demetrieff Perishes on Italian Line

Spouse of the Countess Sylvia of Golden Valley, N. D., Is Among German Lost.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 21.—News was received here today of the death on the Italian front of Count Vassili Demetrieff, said to be a secret agent of the German government, whose wife, the Countess Sylvia, was a resident until recently of Golden Valley, N. D.

Two years ago the countess began divorce proceedings against the count here, charging he deserted her in Golden Valley, whither they had come from Russia via Siberia. While at Seattle, Countess Sylvia charged in her divorce suit, Count Vassili endeavored to inflame Japanese in that section against this country. H. Z. Mendow, the countess' attorney, said she would make an effort to obtain title to the count's estates in Russia.

MORAL TREASON SAYS ROOSEVELT

Former President Talks to New York Women on Responsibilities of Suffrage.

SIN TO SURRENDER SHORT OF VICTORY

New York, N. Y., Nov. 21.—Responsibilities the women of New York state have inherited through their enfranchisement were outlined by Col. Theodore Roosevelt at a mass meeting tonight in the Metropolitan opera house in celebration of the recent woman suffrage victory. Gov. Whitman and Dr. Anna Shaw were other speakers.

Col. Roosevelt aroused the enthusiasm of the women when he expressed the hope that the federal woman suffrage amendment would soon be adopted. Then he said he would speak to them about their newly acquired "heavy responsibilities."

"Hitherto my appeal has been that you should be given a right," he said, "to which in my judgment you were entitled. Now you have been given this right. Now my appeal is not for you, but to you. Now I most earnestly and solemnly ask that you will well and faithfully perform the duty which the giving of the right entails."

"What we citizens of democracy who enjoy full political rights need to remember is that we have no moral right to their enjoyment, and that in the long run we will not be permitted to enjoy them, unless we perform the duties necessarily implied in their possession. In this world neither man nor woman has any right to the enjoyment of a privilege unless he or she accepts and fulfills the obligations accompanying it."

"A democracy that represents merely the enjoyment of privilege is bound in the end to go down. It is only a democracy based on service which can permanently endure. The enjoyment of the right and the performance of the duty must go hand in hand."

Women commit "moral treason" against the United States who do not insist that the war be fought to a victorious conclusion," Col. Roosevelt declared. He condemned the Germanized socialist in this country, men and women alike, the professional pacifists and the professional pro-Germans, and all others who aid them, as traitors to America and mankind.

STILL MAKE FORD CARS.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Ford owners throughout the country have been made needlessly alarmed by the report that Henry Ford would build no more passenger cars until the war is over. The report is untrue. The new United States regulations which will govern the manufacture of passenger cars will be observed by the Ford plant as well as by the other makers, but just what the ruling will be no body knows just now, and meantime the manufacture of Ford passenger cars continues.

The Ford company is devoting a portion of its equipment to war materials but has not discontinued its regular output.

CONSTIPATION CAUSES OBSTINATE HEADACHES

When your head aches you will usually find the bowels have been inactive, and if you relieve this condition, by clearing the intestinal organs of the fermenting congestion of stomach waste, foul gases and bile, the head is relieved immediately.

Remember this the next time you suffer from headache. The combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin sold by druggists under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is highly recommended as a gentle laxative that acts easily and quickly, without griping or discomfort. It contains no opiate, narcotic, or habit-forming drug, is pleasant to the taste, and a most effective household remedy. Mothers find it especially desirable as a laxative for children.

You can buy Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin from your druggist for fifty cents. Get a bottle and have it in the house when needed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 456 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

By-Laws.
The original meaning was "town laws." "By" is an old Norse word meaning "town." It appears in the names of such towns as Derby and Whitby in the part of England which was overrun by the Danes in the ninth and tenth centuries.

BOLSHEVIKI RULE MORE TYRANNICAL THAN THE CZAR'S

Situation Must Clear Before Shipments May Clear for Russian Ports.

COSSACK HETMAN LEADS ARMY TOWARD VERONEZ

American Engineer Stevens Quits Petrograd for Service in the Far East.

Washington, Nov. 21.—No shipments of supplies will be permitted to go from the United States to Russia until the situation in that country clears. The American government before allowing the export of goods already on the docks wants to know in whose hands they will fall on their arrival.

The cessation of shipments is temporary only if a stable government is formed which the United States can recognize. If the Bolsheviks gain control and pursue their program calling for a peace with Germany, the embargo will be permanent. A protracted civil war would work to keep the embargo tight, as the United States then would fear that supplies might go to the Bolshevik faction.

Shipments Withheld.
The provisional government was given credits amounting in all to $125,000,000, of which $191,000,000 already has been advanced. Much of this money has been spent for supplies now awaiting shipment, and the Russians have been given vessels for its transportation. Shipments will be held up by denial of bunker coal to the ships.

Thomas D. Jones, vice chairman of the war trade board, called at the white house today and conferred with President Wilson. No statement was forthcoming, but it was believed the Russian situation was discussed.

Conditions in Russia still are far

Pro Germans Admonished As to Duty

Granville, N. D., Nov. 21.—A crowd of 100 citizens of this city tonight turned the fire hose on the shop of Bernt Postad, a local cobbler of Scandinavian parentage, said to be guilty of seditious utterances, and after nearly wrecking the shop, marched Foldstad to the city hall and forced him to kneel and kiss the American flag.

ALSO SOUTH DAKOTA.
Dell Rapids, S. D., Nov. 21.—Citizens, headed by Mayor Larson, forced Sam Ducken, a farmer living near here, to salute the Stars and Stripes and then kiss the flag in the main street here today. Ducken, it was reported, had torn up a Y. M. C. A. war work fund campaign card and spat upon it.
